

ABOUT

"The ability for me and my staff to maintain the site was a key selling point for faithHighway. They've been great to work with and the site has exceeded the expectations of our congregation!" – Pastor Scott Fisher

When asked about the church, Pastor Scott Fisher had this to say: "Metroplex Chapel is a twenty-six year old congregation in the heart of the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex — we are at the southwest corner of DFW International Airport. It's a church with a passion for worship, for discipleship, and for outreach — we want to introduce people to a life-transforming gospel of Jesus Christ and nurture them in their faith journey. It's a mature congregation with a broad range of age groups with lots of children, youth, and adults across the age spectrum."

RESULTS

Pastor Fisher is excited about the website. "This is the third version of our church website over the past ten years — the previous two versions were total disasters! I am convinced that a church must have a great website. It must be dynamic, interactive, and kept up to date — for small to medium sized churches the challenge is getting a site designed, up and running, and maintained in a cost effective manner. My experience with faithHighway has been excellent. As we began the process of developing our new site, we had an amount in mind that we could spend on the site. As we got into the development of the site and became more and more familiar with what faithHighway could do and what constituents in our congregation were wanting to see, we had to make some tough decisions — we added some things and rearranged some things. Ultimately, we spent more than we had originally planned, but the expense was well worth it. Our congregation loves the site and uses it regularly. We are adding new things to the site on a regular basis and giving people a reason to come back. Working with faithHighway was working with a team — from conceptualizing what we wanted and how that would function, to designing the interaction of the site, its look, feel and functionality, various team members played different roles in helping build our site. At every step of the way, we were able to ask questions, get feedback, compare ideas and determine what best met our needs."
